

Cape Fear Confederates: The 18th North Carolina Regiment in the Civil War

The 18th North Carolina Regiment has the dubious distinction of firing the volley at Chancellorsville, Virginia, that mortally wounded General Thomas Stonewall Jackson. This tragic accident has overshadowed the regiments otherwise valiant service during the Civil War. One of Robert E. Lees fighting regiments, the 18th North Carolina was a part of two famous Confederate military machines, A.P. Hills Light Division and Jacksons foot cavalry. This revealing history chronicles the regiments exploits from its origins through combat with the Army of Northern Virginia at Hanover Court House, the Seven Days Battles, Cold Harbor, Petersburg, and other battles to its surrender at Appomattox Court House as a battered, much smaller shell of its former self. A roster of those surrendering officers and enlisted men and brief biographical sketches of those who fought with the regiment for most of the war complete this enlightening account.
