

“Broadsides” are a series of articles and essays on our Founding History, our Constitution and Current Events in America written by Taylor E. Hoynes, Jr. and published by Colonial Publishing Co. (www.colonialpublishing.com) Booklets are available in print and Ebook format. “United We Stand, Divided We Fall is an essay about Patriotism. It is how we have come to be a divided nation and how that division will destroy us unless we understand how our country and government came to be the greatest and freest in the world. This title is a phrase that was first attributed to Aesop and has been used in mottos, from nations and states to songs (revolutionary war song The Liberty Song, Kentucky's State Seal, Missouri's State Flag and others), but the most popular use is from the New Testament. The basic concept is that unless the people are united, it is easy to destroy them. “United we stand...divided we fall. Were Americans...and that says it all” John “Duke” Wayne Unless America comes together to get back to the Founding Fathers intent on how they made us a truly “United” States of America it will lead us to destruction and all citizens will become enslaved to a system headed by the Monarchs of the New World no longer as free men and women. The Founders were Individualist and not Collectivist and warned us over and over not to let the federal government usurp the citizens. We have to decide if we are Individualist or Collectivist under an Oligarch Collectivist system run by a selective “elite” group of monarchs.
